

LINLEY &
SIMPSON

Tenant Guide

Renting appeals to many due to the flexibility it offers but there are still important decisions to be made when deciding where to live.

Our Tenant guide takes you through the different stages when renting a property providing tips to help you with your search, advice about your responsibilities as a tenant and guidance for the end of your tenancy.

BEFORE YOU START YOUR SEARCH

Understand the costs and fees involved in renting

Before you start searching for a property it is a good idea to work out a budget. Look at what your current outgoings are to establish what money will you have left each month to spend on rent and other costs that will be associated with your rental property.

Deposit

This will be the biggest cost you will need to allow for. The deposit is normally one and a quarter month's rent. So for example, a rent of £500pcm would require a deposit of £625. If Linley & Simpson manage the property, the deposit will be held in a bonded client account in accordance with ARLA and government regulations. This means that it is protected both during and after your tenancy and when you leave we will negotiate any proposed deductions helping Tenant and Landlord to reach agreement. All deposits now have to be protected by law so if you are considering renting through a private landlord or another Agent, ensure you satisfy yourself that they are complying by asking them which Tenancy Deposit Scheme they are registered with.

Rent in advance

Rent is usually paid monthly in advance so you will need to pay upfront for the first month when you start your new tenancy.

Letting Fees

We will charge you a one-off Administration Fee and a holding fee (which will be offset against your initial rent) when you apply for your chosen property. Should you renew your tenancy after each agreed term, we will charge you a Renewal Fee.

Other initial fees may be payable if you require a guarantor or if there are more than two applicants for the property.

You can see all our fees here.

Ongoing costs

Ongoing, the monthly outgoings associated with your rental property will include:

- Rent
- Council Tax (sometimes this may be included in the rent)
- Utilities (gas, electricity and water – sometimes these may be included in the rent)
- Phone/ broadband
- TV Licence
- Contents Insurance – you will be responsible for arranging contents insurance for your own possessions. The Landlord covers the building and his own contents against normal perils such as fire, flood or theft but not yours. You should also consider taking out insurance against any damage you might accidentally cause to the Landlord's contents, buildings and fixtures and fittings. It's all too easy to drop the iron on the carpet or spill a glass of red wine.

Linley and Simpson are pleased to be partnered with Homelet who offer specialised insurance for tenants.

Please visit their website for more information on the policies they offer and for a free, no obligation quote:

You will also need to factor in any personal outgoings such as food, clothes, mobile phone bills, travel costs and leisure activities.

How long do you want to rent for?

A tenancy is usually for a minimum of 6 months but some Landlords are happy to offer longer tenancies. Each property will vary so make specific enquiries about how long you can stay for the properties you are interested in.

FIND A PROPERTY

Think about the type of property you are looking for and what is important to you and your lifestyle to help establish your search criteria.

How many bedrooms do you need?

Do you want a furnished or unfurnished property?

Generally speaking unfurnished means you can expect carpets, curtains and white goods only whilst furnished often includes all the essential furnishings required to move in straight away apart from minor kitchen equipment and bedding.

Do you want off street parking or a garage?

Do you want a garden?

Do you have any pets?

Most landlords are not keen on allowing pets but if you raise the issue at the outset we will gladly approach the Landlord on your behalf. Some Landlords will accept pets if you pay a higher deposit.

Where do you want to live? Do you need to be close to public transport links?

Another consideration is whether the property you are looking at is Fully Managed or Let Only. If your chosen property through Linley and Simpson is fully managed, then our in-house Property Managers will be your first point of contact for all maintenance and repair issues and we will act on behalf of the landlord. Let Only or Landlord Managed means that we find tenants for the property and arrange the paperwork, then the Landlord takes over the management and holds your deposit or pays it into a protected scheme. Most properties are fully managed and most of our Let Only clients are well-known to us. Your rights are protected either way.

Administration Fees

You can see all our fees here.

Proving your Identity

We will need proof of address and photo identification from anyone wishing to rent a property through us. If you are currently a homeowner, we will also need proof of ownership of your property. These documents will need to be produced in advance of your proposed moving in date. Click here to see what documents you need when proving identity (please refer to p.5).

Referencing

We will ask for your address history so that we can carry out a search via a Credit Reference Agency. We will also approach your current Landlord or Agent (if you are renting) as well as obtaining a written reference from your Employer. If you are self-employed we will ask for your Accountant's details and/or recent accounts. We have special provisions in place for Overseas Tenants. If you think your situation is unusual, just ask our staff.

Will I need a Guarantor?

If we feel your income is lower than that required for the rent in question or if you are returning to study for example, we could ask for a guarantor to support your tenancy. This is a serious commitment as the guarantor will be as responsible as the tenant for all monies due and obligations agreed for the tenancy. Guarantors need to be earning sufficient to cover both their own financial commitments as well as your rent and we will reference them in the same way as the actual Tenant. A Guarantor fee is payable.

THE TENANCY

Tenancy Agreement

The most common form of tenancy is an Assured Shorthold Tenancy (AST). The tenancy agreement is a contract between you and the landlord and is signed before you can move in. The contract lays out the rights and liabilities of both parties. It is an extensive document which is legally binding therefore you should take time to read and understand it.

Joint tenancies

A joint tenancy is where more than one person is named in the tenancy agreement. Each tenant is jointly and individually liable and responsible for the tenancy.

Tenant's main responsibilities:

- Pay the rent and other charges on time
- Take care of the property
- Make sure everyone in the property, including visitors, behave responsibly
- Maintain the general up keep of the property and gardens
- Let us know in writing if you want to leave – you must give at least 2 months notice if you want to leave at the end of your tenancy

Landlord's main responsibilities:

- Respect the tenant's contractual and statutory rights
- Look after the structure of the building
- Keep all water supply pipes and heating installations in working order
- Keep all gas and electrical fittings safe and in working order

Linley and Simpson have a right to:

- Access the property to carry out inspections, repairs, servicing or safety inspections at the convenience of the tenant
- Show prospective tenants round at the end of your tenancy once you have given notice, again at the tenant's convenience

The agreement will also contain the following information:

- Your name, your landlord's name and the address of the property which is being let
- The date the tenancy will commence
- The duration of the tenancy
- The amount of rent payable, how often it should be paid, when it should be paid and when it can be legally increased
- The agreement should also state when the payments are expected, including Council Tax, utilities, service charges, etc.
- What services your landlord will provide, such as maintenance of common areas
- The notice period you need to give each other if the tenancy is to be terminated.

The Deposit

You will pay a deposit with the initial rent payment before you move into the property. This is held against any breach of the tenancy agreement e.g. non payment of rent or damage to the property or its fittings and furnishings.

The deposit will be protected by a Tenancy Deposit Scheme and will be returned when you leave the property, provided it is in good condition and you have no outstanding charges or rent owing. If the property is not managed by Linley and Simpson, the deposit will be forwarded to your Landlord who will be responsible for lodging it with an appropriate scheme and giving you the details.

Please click here for further information on the Tenancy Deposit Scheme.

The Inventory

The inventory is a list of everything that is included in the property you are renting together with details on the condition the items and the property are in. This is an important document as it will be referred back to at the end of your tenancy and will be used to decide how much of your deposit is returned. You should therefore give it your full attention and check it thoroughly.

REPAIRS

As part of your tenancy you will be required to take reasonable care of the property and its contents.

Landlord Responsibilities include:

- Property's structure and exterior
- Heating and hot water
- Electrical wiring
- Gas appliances
- Boundary walls and fences

Tenant responsibilities include:

- Reporting repairs and allowing access for them to be carried out. You should report any repairs or maintenance issues as soon as you notice them. Not reporting minor repairs which become a major problem can affect the return of your deposit at the end of your tenancy so it's always better to inform your agent or landlord about things as they happen

- Looking after internal decorations and furnishings
- Keeping your home clean and tidy and disposing of rubbish
- Minor maintenance – changing light bulbs, bleeding radiators, pressurising the boiler, unblocking sinks and toilets, checking smoke detectors, defrosting fridge freezer
- Obtaining permission before decorating any part of the property
- Replacing lost keys and ensuring the property is secure when left unattended
- Garden maintenance (where relevant)

Please refer to your tenancy agreement for full information on Landlord and Tenant responsibilities.

General Maintenance & Servicing

Gas fired heating and hot water systems are checked once a year by specialist contractors. You will be given notice for any visits of this nature and they will be carried out by a Gas Safe Registered contractor. You should allow access to the property for these inspections as failure to do so would put you in breach of your Tenancy Agreement.

In the event that an appliance is found to be unsafe, the inspector has to disconnect it. This is the law and is done to protect you.

Routine Inspections

Routine inspections will be carried out during your tenancy to ensure the property is well cared for and to check if there are any maintenance or health and safety issues.

RENEWING YOUR TENANCY

If you are happy at your rented property and wish to stay on past the end of your initial fixed term you will need to ask permission to extend your tenancy. This is called a renewal.

Providing your landlord is happy with you and the condition of the property, you'll most likely be able to continue with your occupancy. A renewal fee will be payable.

You can see all our fees here.

MOVING OUT

If you do not wish to continue with your tenancy, you will need to give your Landlord written notice of your intention to vacate (this notice cannot expire sooner than the expiry of the Tenancy Agreement). You should refer to your tenancy agreement for details of your notice period.

CHECK OUT AND DEPOSIT RETURN

A detailed inventory check will be carried out when you vacate the property.

As long as the condition of the property is the same as when you moved in (barring normal wear and tear), you'll have no problems.

We really want our tenants to receive their deposits back so we have devised an essential end of tenancy checklist and some top tips for you. Please click here to view our tips for check out.
